All About Girl Scouts

WHAT GIRLS DO

Whether in a troop with other girls, or participating in Girl Scouts as an individual, girls can complete badge-earning activities that teach them skills like writing code, hiking safely, running a small cookie business, and practicing good sportsmanship—just to name a few. Girls also get to go on outdoor adventures, learn how to camp like pros, and participate in events like “Think like an Engineer!”

TIME COMMITMENT

Most troops meet twice a month for an hour each meeting during the academic school year, but depending on the troop volunteers and the activities girls are interested in doing, it can vary. There are also many opportunities for girls to explore their interests during the summer at camp, on weekends during overnight trips, and all of the in-between!

COST & MONEY-EARNING

The annual membership due is $25 and is paid to the national Girl Scout organization (Girl Scouts of the USA). Troop dues for materials, activities, and trips vary, and can range from $20–$50 annually. Many troops finance activities through participation in the Cookie Program and Fall Product Programs. Financial assistance is available.

SELL (AND EAT!) COOKIES

At Girl Scout, girls are at the center of all we do. We have supported girls through a unique all-girl environment for more than 100 years. Through experience and research, we know what motivates girls to take on challenges, explore their world, and take action in the community. There are no limits to a girl's success and at Girl Scouts we create opportunities that help girls see that. As a Girl Scout member, your girl will enjoy a safe environment within a network of friends, new and old, where she can feel confident while learning and exploring.
