Digital Promotions

Many families turn to online spaces for connections, resources, and opportunities, making them ideal spots to share information about Girl Scouts in your community and boost visibility.

The GSRV Grassroots Promotions Toolkit provides step-by-step instructions to make recruiting Girl Scouts through these spaces as easy as possible!

Start by finding online spaces in your community. These could include:

- ▶ Facebook groups (try searching for your city or neighborhood name along with terms like families,” “parents,” or “moms”)
- ▶ School/PTA/PTO groups (often these are on Facebook as well, but your schools might use a different platform)
- ▶ NextDoor app
- ▶ Still no luck finding digital spaces for your community? Try asking around—other Girl Scout families in your Service Unit or even your friends and neighbors may be able to help you out!

Once you’ve developed a list of online community groups, social media platforms, and other links, feel free to share these with other individuals within your Service Unit. Ask them to post to a specific platform each time a new campaign launches or a new post is available. This way the distribution of these posts will be organized and ready to go whenever needed!

Current Campaign Posts

Click on this button to check out our current campaign social posts!

The Dropbox folder linked above will be updated throughout the year with ready-to-share social media posts for the current Recruitment campaign. To share one of the posts, follow these steps:

1. Choose an image from the provided options. Download it to your device.
2. Choose text from the options provided. Copy and paste it into a new post on your chosen social media platform.
3. Upload the photo from your device.
4. Post!
5. Repeat to share in each of your identified community spaces.

If you get any questions from community members that you can’t answer yourself, encourage them to reach out to girlscouts@girlscoutsrv.org or 800-845-0787, and River Valleys staff will be happy to assist them.

If you want to do more than the provided posts or create posts specifically for your Service Unit, go for it! You can also re-share posts from the Girl Scouts River Valleys’ page on Facebook, Instagram, or LinkedIn.

Flyers, Posters, and Yard Signs

Available Materials:

General flyers: Perfect for bulletin boards at coffee shops and faith communities, or for leaving a small stack at a community center's local resources table. Available in English, Spanish, Hmong, and Somali.

Customizable event flyers: Use these flyers to promote your Service Unit's sign-up event! You can add event details, including date & time, location, and more, before ordering.

Yard signs: Great for outside schools, at intersections, or even near business parking lots. Some Service Units have had great success working with local golf courses to place these along the side of major roads! (Just be sure to go back and take them down once recruitment season is over.)

Bookmarks: Leave them at the checkout desk at your local library or bookstore!

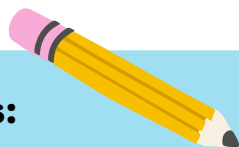

Posters: Ideal for hanging in the window or on the wall of any local business.

Takeaway cards: Leave a few at a front desk or in an open envelope pinned below a flyer!

Tips & Tricks:

- Take tape and pushpins with you! Businesses don't always have these items on hand, even if they're happy to display your materials.
- ◆ Enlist a local troop to help—they can practice their people skills and learn more about their community while expanding Girl Scouts' visibility!
- Ask your Girl Scout families to share materials at the places they're already going—see below for an email template to get started.

All of these materials (and many more) are available to order on the Impressive Print Portal at no cost to you. If you're having difficulty accessing the print portal, reach out to your recruitment staff member or to girlscouts@girlscoutsrv.org.

Here's a list of places other Service Units have been able to share materials.

Local Media Opportunities

Local media outlets, such as newspapers, magazines, and local news channels, can be one of your best partners for reaching potential Girl Scout families in your area. There are two key ways to engage with these outlets: organic coverage and advertisements.

Organic coverage

Local media outlets report on what is happening in their community, and your Girl Scouts are completing newsworthy projects all the time! If you have a Girl Scout earning their Gold, Silver, or Bronze award, a troop completing a Take Action project, or a big Service Unit event, consider reaching out to these outlets to see if they are willing to cover it. Include a link to the Join page (www.girlscoutsrv.org/Join), so interested families can get more information.

Some examples of organic coverage:

- ▶ Chisago County Press – “Girl Scouts a part of the solution!”
- ▶ KEYC \(Mankato\) – “Girl Scouts of Minnesota and Wisconsin River Valleys hold Highest Awards Ceremony”
- ▶ Lake City Graphic – this article was written and submitted by a local Troop Leader!

Get started with the email template below, or these templates for a media advisory or press release. Reach out to your recruitment staff member if you would like additional support connecting with local media outlets.

Dear [Contact name or name of media outlet],

I'm reaching out on behalf of Girl Scout Troop [#####], a group of [Service Unit city/area] Girl Scouts in [grades]. They recently earned their [Bronze/Silver Award, one of the highest awards in Girl Scouting/Gold Award, the highest award in Girl Scouting]. To earn this award, they [brief description of the project – highlight the community impact].

We would love to share these young leaders' accomplishments with our community. Please let us know how we can connect with you and get their project highlighted in [publication name].

Thank you,

Print Advertisements

Widely circulated print publications, like magazines, newspapers, and even Community Education catalogs, present a prime opportunity to share information about Girl Scouts in your community. The print advertisements we purchase in these publications are designed to match the colors, style, and branding of our current campaign, making Girl Scouts even more recognizable across posters, school flyers, social media, and more.

The GSRV Recruitment Team has a budget to help cover print ads in local communities, but we need your help to identify the publications in your area with the highest potential to reach new families. If you have an ad opportunity in your area, you can submit it via the print ad opportunity form.

Engaging Your Community

There are many ways to build the Girl Scout presence in your community. Read on for suggestions and email templates for working with community partners.

Engaging local Girl Scout families

The best way to recruit new families is through their friends and neighbors who have had a great Girl Scout experience. Asking Girl Scout families in your Service Unit to help with recruitment doesn't have to be a big task—encourage them to share materials at places they already visit regularly. Even if only a handful of families respond, that's still several more opportunities for new members to connect with Girl Scouts!

Use the following email template to reach out to families in your community. You can find a list of caregiver email addresses on Looker (reach out to your Recruitment staff member if you would like additional support).

Dear [SERVICE UNIT/AREA] Girl Scout families,

This fall, we are looking for ways to bring the Girl Scout experience to more families in our community, and we need your help! Being a part of Girl Scouts in [SERVICE UNIT AREA/CITY] allows a child to feel empowered to take on new challenges, make a difference in their community, and have fun with lifelong friends! You can help us make sure everyone feels invited and knows what opportunities await their child.

Can you do one or more of the following to bring Girl Scouts to other families in our community?

- Post a flyer at a community space(s) you already visit, such as your work, a dance studio, a faith community, etc.
- Put a Girl Scouts yard sign outside your home for a few weeks
- Post about Girl Scouts on your personal social media page—you can share/re-post one of Girl Scouts River Valleys' posts, or write your own about what Girl Scouts means to your family
- Invite friends, neighbors, and family members to join your troop or to find another local troop. Encourage them to attend our Try Girl Scouts night on [INSERT SIGN-UP EVENT DETAILS HERE or, if you're not hosting a sign-up event, replace this sentence with "They can visit girlscoutsrv.org/Join to get started!"]

Flyers and yard signs will be available [INSERT DETAILS HERE about how families can get physical materials—through troop leaders? Picking up at someone's house? Are you willing to drop them off at their address?]

If you have any questions, please reach out to me at [your contact info].
Thank you for sharing Girl Scouts with our community!

Other local opportunities

Many cities, counties, and local government agencies have online directories of service organizations, resources and nonprofits, or youth programs. See if any of these exist in your area, and if so, check that Girl Scouts is included in the list. If not, reach out to get our programs added, so families in your area can find us. Get started with the email template below. If you need additional support, you can send opportunities to your Recruitment staff member at girlscouts@girlscoutsrv.org.

When submitting information for directory listings, please share the following details as requested by the directory:
